

SIT111 - Task 1.1P

Computer System

- My target in this SIT111 module is to get a High Distinction grade.
- I ensure that I might Definity do hard work to achieve the above-mentioned grade by self-engaging myself with researches and self-studying new techniques and methods which would help me enhance my knowledge in this module. I would spend my weekends engaging in this self-study.
- I would mostly prefer reading book and having my hands-on practices on implementing thing so I would encounter many errors which I would solve it through making a discussion with my friends and engaging in online search.
- I mostly face challenges in my practical's where I encounter many errors, but it does help me do my self-learning method to solve that problem. since this module is interesting I do not think that I will face many challenges which I will not be able to solve even if I do I would get help from my friends or else from my professor.